Hello everyone,

I hope that this update finds you well.

It is an exciting day today as we open our long-term care homes and community sites to indoor visits and essential caregivers. We have placed a number of documents on our website to help you navigate the new procedures relating to outdoor visits, indoor visits and essential caregiver visits. Please refer to these links for further information.

In the meantime, please continue to follow information posted above these updates.

Thank you once again for your continued patience as we move into this next phase. If you have any questions, please reach out to your contacts at our sites.

Stay well and enjoy the summer weather!
