

June 10, 2020

Hello everyone,

I hope that this update finds you well. I am happy to inform you that we continue to have no active cases of COVID-19 at any of our 17 locations.

As outlined in my last COVID-19 update, we continue to work with Public Health, the provincial government and our provincial associations to make plans for the gradual and cautious relaxing of visiting precautions at our sites. To date, we have had no further direction, as to how this might happen, but continue to put preparations in place.

As part of the universal testing announced by the provincial government last week, we continue to have our long-term care staff and congregate site staff tested for COVID-19. At this time, I am pleased to inform you that all test results received to date have been negative. We will continue to keep you posted as further information becomes available.

I want to thank you again for being so supportive, understanding and incredibly patient during this difficult time.

Please continue to look after yourself and stay well!

Commented [SW1]: Might not want to say re-opening as they may read this that we are opening our doors again to visitors...but happy to go with the flow.

Commented [SW2]: Probably want to take out some as it may raise questions as to why we are not testing all congregate staff.
